Jim Nuse Is Finalist for City Manager

The San Marcos City Council has named Jim Nuse, Round Rock City Manager, as the sole finalist to be the new City Manager in San Marcos.

After meeting for two hours in executive session Tuesday night, the City Council gave direction in public session to consultant Kay Stroman of The Stroman Group, LLC, to begin negotiations with Nuse on a proposed employment contract.

No formal action was taken by the City Council. After the negotiation process is completed, the City Council will vote on the appointment at a regular meeting, possibly on October 5 or October 19, said Mayor Susan Narvaiz.

The other two candidates under consideration were Jeffrey Howell, City Manager of Kilgore, TX, and Scott Moore, City Manager of Peoria, Il. Stroman received 67 applications for the post after a national search.

The City Council interviewed five semi-finalists on September 14 and 15 and held a public meet and greet with Nuse, Moore and Howell on September 22. The City Council received written comments from attendees that were utilized in narrowing the field to Mr. Nuse.
